

Broadmeadows Women's Community House

The Women's House is committed to providing opportunities for all women to explore and develop the strength, skills and confidence to be fully involved in the lives of their families and their communities.

- Our programs attempt to address social, cultural and geographic isolation
- Promote and enhance parent /child relationships, particularly in the early childhood years
- Build self esteem and the coping skills of women
- Support mothers in their parenting role
- Assist families to develop links to the community in which they live

The Broadmeadows Women's Community House FARS program is funded by Department of Social Services and supported by:

Australian Government
Department of Social Services
